Dear Lisa:

We miss you! As you will remember, at this time of year, we are in the midst of evaluating President's Scholarship candidates. This year around 308 qualified for the program -- but only 53 women. What's wrong?

We are still struggling under the restraints of limited scholarships which means that non-resident students have to pay a pretty hefty part of the cost. Of course, now that we are world renown because of the Olympics and we have increased our national stature because of football, we may be more attractive than ever.

I assume you have seen some of the great publicity stimulated by our football team. I thought when we made the Final 4 in basketball that was remarkable -- but football!!

I really appreciate your sending me the picture of Ana, but I would really like a picture of mother and daughter. Sometime when you are out walking with Ana, perhaps someone will take a snapshot which you could then share with me.

Did I tell you that we now have our first Ph.D. -- Steve Eddins. I am so pleased. He has accepted a position at the University of Illinois. His wife was able to arrange a transfer with her company which was very fortunate. They probably will start a family soon.

I received a note from Michelle Reece. All she said was that she experienced a very bad quarter and that she was going to take some time off to evaluate. I do not know what happened. Perhaps she will decide to follow a career other than the law. Somehow I cannot envision her as a "tough attorney."
